American Transfer is a family-owned and managed equipment relocation specialist business that has been serving Tulsa since 1923. Specializing in heavy hauling, American does industrial plant moves, moving and setting of industrial machine tools, moving of contractor's equipment (back-hoes, graders) and concrete traffic barriers. American also works with forklifts and cranes to load and reposition loads, and offloads their vehicles and other's vehicles. Most of American's work is within 50 miles of the Tulsa Metro area. They have authority for up to 300 miles, which includes OK, AR, MO and KS. American's work is divided between crane and forklift projects and moving or trucking. Click on American's website to view some of their equipment.

Sooner Heavy Haul is a locally owned and operated specialized carrier serving all 48 states and Canada. Constantly striving to exceed our customer's expectations our offerings go beyond trucking. Experience with other modes of transport gives us the ability to utilize rail or barge when costs, size and schedules dictate an alternative means of transport, often combining all three. In addition to all means of transport, we offer project planning and management, engineering, custom fabrication of transport equipment and site evaluations. Our equipment includes all types of trailers, three and four axle power units, custom built beams, dollies and turntables. Our 10 acre facility is located 15 minutes from the port and can be reached at virtually any height or weight. We are constantly updating and adding equipment and excel at handling loads and projects other carriers consider too difficult. Given proper time and information to plan virtually any load is within our capabilities. We are a proud member of the SC&RA.
